Read this passage to yourself.

Extract from the Secret Garden by Frances Hodgson Burnett

The old Captain's stories were what frightened people worst of all. They were dreadful stories—about hanging, and walking the plank, storms at sea and wild acts and places on the Spanish Main. He must have lived his life among some of the wickedest men that God ever allowed upon the sea, and the language he used in these stories shocked our simple country people almost as much as the crimes that he described.

My father was always saying the inn would be ruined, for people would soon stop coming there, but I really believe the old Captain's presence did us good. People were frightened at the time, but on looking back they rather liked it; it was a fine excitement in a quiet country life, and there was even a party of the younger men who pretended to admire him, calling him a 'true sea-dog' and a 'real old salt' and such like names.

Answer this question. Choose one answer from the options below and mark its letter on your answer sheet.

P4

Which of the following is true about the country people's feelings towards the old Captain's stories?

This extract is from Treasure Island by Robert Louis Stevenson. It tells the story of Jim, a young boy who lives in an inn in an English seaside town with his mother and father. A new guest at the inn, Bill, terrifies everyone at the inn with threats of violence. Bill dies, Jim finds a treasure map hidden in his things. After showing this map to Squire Trelawney, they decide to set sail to find the treasure. Jim goes along as a member of the crew. The squire hires some men, including Long John Silver as the ship's cook. This is the moment that Jim meets Long John Silver for the first time.

1. When I had finished breakfast, the squire gave me a note addressed to John Silver, to be

2. delivered to the Spyglass. He told me I would easily find the place by following the line

3. of the docks and keeping a lookout for a little inn with a large brass telescope for a

4. sign. I set off, overjoyed at this opportunity to see some more of the ships and sailors. I

5. picked my way among a great crowd of people and carts, for the dock was now at its

6. busiest, until I found the inn.

7. It was an entertaining little place. The sign was newly painted; the windows had neat

8. red curtains and there was fresh sawdust on the floor. There was a street on each side

9. and an open door on both, which made the large, low room pretty clear to see in, in

10. spite of clouds of tobacco smoke. The customers were mostly sailors, and they talked

11. so loudly that I paused at the door, almost afraid to enter.

12. As I was waiting, a man came out of a side room and I was sure he must be Long John.

13. His left leg was cut off close to the hip, and under his left shoulder he carried a crutch,

14. which he managed with wonderful skill, hopping about upon it like a bird. He was very

15. tall and strong, with a face as big as a ham—plain and pale, but intelligent and smiling.

16. Indeed, he seemed in the most cheerful spirits, whistling as he moved about among

17. the tables, with a merry word or a slap on the shoulder for his favourite guests.

18. Now, to tell you the truth, from the very first mention of Long John in Squire

19. Trelawney's letter I was afraid that he might be the very one-legged sailor whom I had

20. watched for so long at the old Benbow Inn. But one look at the man in front of me was

21. enough. I had seen the old Captain, and Black Dog, and the blind man, Pew, and I

22. thought I knew what a pirate was like—very different from this clean and pleasant-

23. tempered man in front of me.

24. I plucked up courage at once, crossed the threshold and walked right up to the man

25. where he stood, propped on his crutch, talking to a customer.

26. 'Mr. Silver, sir?' I asked, holding out the note.

27. 'Yes, my lad,' said he; 'that is my name, to be sure. And who are you?' And then as he
28. saw the squire's letter, he seemed to be startled.
29. 'Oh!' he said, quite loudly, and offering his hand. 'I see. You are our new cabin-boy;
30. I'm pleased to see you.'
31. And he took my hand in his large firm grasp.
32. Just then one of the customers at the far side rose suddenly and made for the door. He
33. was out in the street in a moment. But I noticed him and I recognized him at glance.
34. 'Oh,' I cried, 'stop him! It's Black Dog!'
35. 'I don't care who he is,' cried Silver. 'But he hasn't paid. Harry, run and catch him.' (22)
36. One of the others who was nearest the door leapt up and started to chase him.
37. 'Who did you say he was?' he asked. 'Black what?'
38. 'Dog, sir,' I said. "Has Mr. Trelawney not told you about the pirates? He was one of
39. them.'

Please answer these questions. (Look at the passage again if you need to.) You should choose the best answer and mark its letter on your answer sheet.
